

Get the most out of your multi-storied buildings – and put more money in your pocket.

Maximize leasable space.

Using Won-Door FireGuard fire doors to enclose elevator lobbies won't chew up valuable real estate and often cost less than other options. Concealed in wall pockets that can be designed to blend with surrounding décor, the doors are only visible in the event of an emergency.

Minimize property damage.

The UL listed Won-Door FireGuard, with its tight fitting floor sweep, can limit the spread of smoke and fire throughout the building that most often occurs through the elevator shaft.

Create impressive interiors.

Stunning architectural features such as multi-storied atriums and soaring lobbies are feasible – without the need for costly smoke removal systems – when protected by the Won-Door FireGuard.

Reduce security and utility costs.

All Won-Door FireGuard doors – in one building or many – can be monitored and controlled from a single computer terminal, saving money on security personnel. Automatically close off elevator lobbies each evening to maintain heat within the tenant space, rather than allowing it to escape up the elevator shaft.

Increase lease rates.

Design-savvy business owners are often willing to pay higher rents for features such as glass entrances and multi-level suites. The Won-Door FireGuard fire door is an acceptable – and much less obtrusive – alternative to swing type fire doors in these applications.

Lower maintenance costs.

The Won-Door FireGuard is a completely electronically supervised system. Designed to store in shallow recessed pockets, and without the use of floor tracks or exposed hardware of any kind, these fire doors are the most trouble free product in the fire protection industry.

Simplify code compliance.

Won-Door FireGuard products are UL listed for up to 3 hours as a rated door assembly and 2 hours as a moveable fire wall. They are also recognized by the International Building Code as the only complying design alternative to traditional swinging doors in any means of egress application.
